What are the pillars of our new identity?

Guiding principles

The guiding principles form the foundation of the RoyalJet brand. They are a set of values and promises that our brand is created from and ultimately answers to.

Having a role of impact.

We're not content with just being in aviation.

We want to move beyond that and have a purposeful and impactful role in the industry.

With our vision, we strive to affect how clients, partners and competitors see and experience business jets.

We work to see the RoyalJet brand become a solid and impactful reference in the industry - locally, regionally and globally.

Creating tailored journeys.

We are not in the business of carrying our clients from A to B.

This is just the beginning.

In truth, we are providing an experiential journey more than a physical one.

We provide a customized service, exploring multiple layers that a premium flight should entail, from before scheduling the trip, until much after returning safely back home.

A personalized service designed around the needs and wants of our passengers.

A truly tailored journey.

Pursuing delight.

In the segments where we operate, time and privacy are critical assets.

In this same environment, material items easily become commodities - irrelevant and ordinary.

So, beyond just having more things, our guests value delight and experiences; unique moments; a detail; a gesture; and the emotional treats these trigger.

For our customers, delight is the new luxury. For our teams, it is a behavioral belief.

Bringing a streamlined experience.

Although we understand the experience as an overlay of multiple service/product layers, this doesn't need to mean an overload of stimulus to the senses.

In fact, it's quite the opposite.

Overall, our experience is designed following the principles of minimalism and elegance, so it delivers a sense of timelessness.

These follow the aesthetics of the new Abu Dhabi and establishes one additional link with the Emirate.

A set of guiding principles that value quality over quantity.

Standing for more than ourselves.

Beyond a private airline or even a premium charter service, our aircraft, our people and our spaces carry an intimate link to the city of Abu Dhabi and to the late Sheikh Zayed.

Our duty doesn't stop at respecting and being on par with the solemnity of carrying the RoyalJet name.

Beyond that, our vision is to help project the image of the new Abu Dhabi to the world; a city growing and prospering in balanced sophistication. Young and vibrant. Invested in the design of a new future.

Beyond a luxury flight service provider, we assume the responsibility being the flag-bearer, across the world, of the new Abu Dhabi and the new UAE.

Moments that matter...

1 Experience personalization

A digital platform to unlock better, more customized and curated experiences for our passengers, while allowing staff and crew to access passenger's expectations and desires, providing founded insights for multi-layered and delightful experiences.

Booking

Whether it's through a quick call or special request, once the booking request has been received the team prepares an initial tablet to start the customized trip planning for passengers.

Initial personalization

Configuring the trip and logistics ahead of the flight where passengers provide additional information regarding their preferences and desires, as well as the ideal aircraft layout.

Elevating the experience

Closer to the flight date, our passengers will configure their in-flight journey; defining the moments in the cabin, their meal preferences or their entertainment favorites.

In-flight control

Mid-flight, passengers can continue to tailor their flight journey interacting with the crew but also signaling other preferences through the app.

Engagement at destination

Finally, our experience personalization platform can also play a big role at the destination.

Whether arriving to a familiar city, to a new destination or even to Abu Dhabi, the platform becomes the tool of communication between passengers and our experience operations team, who can advise, guide and handle any specific requests.

The perfect FBO

Our FBO is the beginning of the immersive experience, completely surrounding our passenger with an environment that is to their expectations and beyond.

Relax and experience

Whilst finding their way, the passenger wanders and settles in an area where they feel the most comfortable.

This area could be private, or shared with others.

Areas dedicated to this moment:

- Lobby
- Lounges
- Bathrooms
- Meeting rooms

Crew lounge

Not part of the passenger's journey, however, just as important because it fulfills the wants and needs of the crew.

Providing comfort, necessary food and rest for the crew.

Trip to aircraft

A RoyalJet vehicle takes our passenger straight to the aircraft where their flight experience will commence.

Welcome and check-in

Welcomed at the entrance, guests are made to feel welcomed and comfortable every step of the way.

Relax and experience

Resting before the flight includes entertainment, meals brought to them directly, or social engagement.

X-Ray and security check

Part of the standard procedure of airports, but we don't want our passenger to feel crowded, stressed, or anxious about it.

Everything is very personal and done to relax and prepare our guest for the journey ahead.

Exit the FBO

Once the security check is finished and the bags have been loaded onto the aircraft, the passenger is ready to exit the building to the aircraft.

Experience the food

The food is a highlight of the flight, creating a connection between everything the passenger has experienced so far, and what is to come.

Seating and take-off

Seating and take-off should offer delight and excitement for the journey ahead; relief of any anxiety accumulated up to this point.

Be entertained

From individual tablets, magazines and books, to meetings and on-board moments, entertainment is fundamental in the passenger enjoying their trip.

Relax and/or sleep

Depending on the duration of the flight, the passenger may choose to sleep or not. But the relaxation aspect will always be necessary, whether it's after take-off, or mid-trip.

Welcome and check-in

Once the car arrives at the airplane the journey truly begins.

The welcome and first impression of our aircraft sets the tone for the rest of their onboard experience.

Exit and farewell

Even though the flight has ended, the journey continues past it.

The farewell reminds the passenger of their experience onboard and encourages future flights.

The perfect aircraft

Our passenger's experience ramps up once onboard our aircraft, and their first impression will have a lasting impact. They should feel ready and eager to explore our aircraft's layout, almost like it has been designed specifically for their flight journey and experiences that they have requested beforehand.

Tailored environment

Relaxing moments

A comfortable experience tailored around the perfect seat, materials, lighting, temperature and small accessories that give the passenger the perfect comfort.

Entertainment moments

Every passenger's device will be enhanced either before the journey or before take off.

In-flight entertainment is available for each passenger through tablets such as iPads.

Configuring the journey

Through our experience personalization platform, passengers can tailor some of their preferences ahead of the flight. Passengers can choose the sequence of moments along their journey, selecting if they would rather start with a meal, a relaxing pause or a productive moment.

Meal moments

Meals are exciting moments in the flight journey, occasionally the highlight of the entire flight.

To ensure a great experience, our environment is set and configured upon passenger's request to create a fine-dining experience.

The flight journey is the biggest portion of the RoyalJet experience and it is important to make sure passengers are feeling comfortable and connected at all times.

We have the possibility to customize the experience in the cabin but furthermore, we can give our passengers intuitive control over their experience and the ambient elements that surround them.

Productive moments

For RoyalJet's guests - today's leaders - it's common to take the opportunity of traveling to be productive, either in groups (meetings), or alone.

This requires an interior setting that allows the passenger to work or to meet, while having the flexibility to do both.

Staying connected

Our passengers get to connect their devices to the cabin wifi - allowing them to interact with their own content and internal systems such as lighting, sound and curtains.

5 Customized meal

A touch of your destination

For an added delight, the touch of your destination is a box that is delivered before the flight journey.

This box is a reflection of the best sweets, culinary tastes, or bites from the city that passengers will travel to.

Dining in the lounge

At the lounge, passengers can have a fine dining experience with fellow travelers or even people staying behind. It's an exclusive service which enhances the journey with a tasty beginning.

Amuse bouche

The amuse bouche is the first thing which will be served by the crew members to the passenger on the flight.

Main meal

Before the flight, passengers are asked to personalize their meal preferences.

By creating a customized meal option there is a chance to select from a range of experiences that also align to the passenger's diet and taste.

Dessert, coffee & tea

Desserts will be inspired by the craft of our pastry chef to meet expectations of passengers, whether for a sweet moment or a special celebration on board.

Snack give-away

The experience culminates with a giveaway of a packaged snack from samples of pralines and chocolate bonbons to a range of options in a goodie basket to delight flyers right before landing.

6 Extended delight

Landing in Abu Dhabi

Landing in Abu Dhabi allows an opportunity to extend the experience beyond the flight. For some passengers this moment can be their first interaction with Abu Dhabi or the UAE.

The lounge is ready to welcome all passengers and the required security and luggage management services are complemented with a warm welcome, carefully selected food options, and an elegant sensorial experience.

At destination.

Enhancing the journey

The experience operations team will proactively recommend bespoke happenings specifically identified for the passenger, thus enhancing the stay-away experience.

At home base.

Curated experiences

Being back at home base, the passenger becomes a client of our experience team and our team of experts become lifestyle concierges, keeping a pulse of the passenger's preferences and on the most unique and exclusive experiences that match that profile.

World

When landing abroad, the service is maintained through ambassadors of the experience team, responsible for engaging with the passengers from the moment they land and guiding them through the lounge and FBO services.

Exclusive bookings

The experience operations team will help passengers discover their destination.

Knowing what each passenger or group of passengers might enjoy doing while abroad allows RoyalJet to curate extended experiences.

Elevating experiences

In addition to curating unforgettable experiences the team is devoted to gaining access to special experiences like existing global happenings, cultural events, exhibitions and shows, conferences and talks, exclusive backstage tours with world-renowned artists and much more.
